PLAY SAWGRASS, PEBBLE AND AUGUSTA... IN CORNWALL

Unless you're well connected, you'll probably never get the chance to tee it up at the home of the Masters or the Players Championship. But there is an attractive alternative. The Famous Nine at Gwel an Mor, a five-star resort in Cornwall, is home to some of the most famous and awe-inspiring par 3s in golf, including the 12th at Augusta, the Island Green at TPC Sawgrass and the 17th at Pebble Beach. What's more, the par 3 course uses all-weather tees and greens, which means it can be played all year round. Prices start from just £10 for adults; £8 for kids. ## BAG YOUR FIRST JOB IN GOLF

You can now apply for a paid internship at a Top 100 resort

Internships often get a bad rap but that's probably because they're not as good as the one The Machrie is offering students – young and old – right now. They've just launched a paid internship programme for 2022, described as a 'once-in-a-lifetime opportunity' to work at one of the best golf resorts in Scotland – and play unlimited golf on your days off.

Throughout the three- to six-month internship, interns will live on site in shared accommodation and receive plenty of perks, including complimentary access to a range of golf facilities including the 18-hole Machrie Links, the par 3 course, and a golf simulator room.

Of course, there will also be plenty of work and responsibilities involved and the chance to work across various departments. The Golf & Hotel Operations Internship covers everything from marketing and retail management to running and planning golf days and events. But if that doesn't appeal to you, the Championship Links Maintenance Internship lets you play the role of a greenkeeper on a Golf World Top 100 Golf Course.

Naturally, both programmes include extensive training and, if you impress, there's always the chance they may employ you full time. The deadline for submissions is 12pm on January 9, with internships running between April to October 2022. To apply, visit campbellgrayhotels.com

SAVE YOUR GRIPS

You'll be amazed at what a little TLC can do for your clubs

Did you know Golf Pride once conducted a study that revealed a set of worn, two-year-old grips can cost between three to four strokes, on average, over the course of one round? That's a heck of a lot of shots for any golfer, which is why it's so important to look after your grips. This step-by-step guide from Golf Pride will help...

1. When your grips wear down, they'll feel slick and lose traction.

As a general rule, it's recommended that you change your grips once a year, though if you play more than 40 rounds a year or hit the range a few times a week, you may need to replace your grips more often than that.

2. Pay particularly close attention to the clubs you use most frequently. The chances are you'll need to replace the grips on your wedges a lot sooner than your long irons or woods. It may be that you only need to get four clubs regripped at your local pro shop.

3. A full bag of 14 clubs can be cleaned and dried in less than 15 minutes.

All you need is a warm, soapy brush or sponge so you can scrub each grip clean from top to bottom. Just don't forget to rinse each grip after with warm, non-soapy water to remove any residue. Leftover soap can leave the rubber feeling slick.

4. Pat each grip dry with a clean towel and set aside to air dry to preserve that tacky feel.

We recommend that you clean your grips once every five to 10 rounds to remove a build-up of sweat, dirt and oils from your hands.

5. Store your golf clubs at room temperature, ideally in the house, rather than in your car boot, shed or garage.

Your partner may not appreciate it, but your grips certainly will!
