The hotel's new Scottish Island Corporate Retreat package invites businesses to take advantage of the facilities and plethora of activities both on and off property and create their very-own bespoke itinerary that is sure to impress clients and colleagues alike.

Nestled in the dunes of a pristine seven-mile beach on this beautiful Scottish isle, just a 25-minute flight from Glasgow, The Machrie offers breathtaking views and world-class golf, alongside exquisite food and memorable outdoor pursuits. The 47 rooms, suites and lodges offer sweeping vistas of the Atlantic Ocean, golf course and hills of Islay whilst the lounge and bar areas are the ideal meeting spots for groups to reconvene and enjoy a glass of whisky after a day of adventures. Flexible and informal meeting spaces, including a cinema screening room, private lounge and boardroom are also readily available within the package. Serene spa treatment rooms, gym and sauna complete the wellness offering.

Team building exercises include clay target shooting, fishing, cycling trips around Islay's coastline, fat biking on the beach, as well as visiting the island's nine whisky distilleries, including Ardbeg, Laphroaig and Bowmore.

What's more, clients can be entertained - or teams rewarded - with a round of golf on the award-winning 18-hole links, ranked 75th in the world in Golf World's Top 100, or on The Wee Course, offering six par-3 holes with four different layouts - the perfect team-building exercise for all abilities.

Following a day of teeing off or exploring the island, groups are invited to reconvene at Restaurant 18 for a seasonal five-course menu that celebrates the best of Scottish produce. With panoramic views overlooking the 18th hole of the golf course and across the Atlantic beyond, there's no better place to reflect on their day on the Isle.
